Please keep a copy of the course outline for your future reference as the department does not archive course outlines.

Students with documented disabilities, temporary or chronic medical conditions, requiring academic accommodations for tests/exams (e.g., private space) or during lectures/laboratories (e.g., note-takers) are encouraged to contact Accessibility Services (AS) at 786-9771 or accessibilityservices@uwinnipeg.ca to discuss appropriate options. All information about a student's disability or medical condition remains confidential. <http://www.uwinnipeg.ca/accessibility>.

Students who plan to conduct research interviews, focus groups, surveys, or any other method of collecting data from any person, even a family member, must obtain the approval of the UHREB before commencing data collection. Exceptions are research activities in class as a learning exercise. See <http://www.uwinnipeg.ca/index/research-human-ethics> for submission requirements and deadlines."

All students, faculty and staff have the right to participate, learn and work in an environment that is free of harassment and discrimination. The UW Respectful Working and Learning Environment Policy may be found online at www.uwinnipeg.ca/respect

Students may choose not to attend classes or write examinations on holy days of their religion, but they must notify their instructors at least two weeks in advance. Instructors will then provide opportunity for students to make up work examinations without penalty. A list of religious holidays can be found at <http://uwinnipeg.ca/academics/calendar/docs/important-notes.pdf>

University of Winnipeg promotes a scent-free environment. Please be respectful of the needs of classmates and the instructor by avoiding the use of scented products while attending lectures. Exposure to perfumes and other scented products (such as lotion) can trigger serious health reactions in persons with asthma, allergies, migraines or chemical sensitivities.

A minimum of 20% of the work on which the final grade is based (i.e., term-test and class participation 1) will be available to the student before the voluntary withdrawal date.

Course Objectives/Learning Outcomes

1. Understand the concept of marketing in an international context and the factors contributing to marketing success.
2. Acquire knowledge and skills needed for implementation of international marketing strategies.
3. Identify and analyze international markets in terms of the products, services and the additional three Ps—people, process and physical evidence.

Evaluation Criteria

→ Individual Assignment (10%): This individual oral presentation consists of analyzing and discussing a journal article of your choice from only the Journal of International Marketing or International Marketing Review published after 2000. These journals are available free of cost in EbscoHost/Business premier Source database in our library. Your presentation must include objective(s) of the journal article, hypotheses, methodology used to test the hypotheses, results and recommendations for international managers. Please do not choose an article that does not have hypotheses or propositions. Date for your presentation will be assigned to you in the first week of the course and posted on <http://abem.uwinnipeg.ca> → Study Group List. This assignment should be prepared in PowerPoint software for 10 minutes. You will have an additional 5 minutes for questions and answers. Failure to give presentation on due date will result in zero mark unless a medical note is provided. The fact that you need to work, have travel plans, or have too many tests/presentations/exams is not a valid reason for rescheduling your individual presentation. Your presentation must include academic journal citations. Please also give me a handout of your slides (6 slides/page), and a copy of the journal article (pdf is ok, but not a weblink as it may be password protected) on which your presentation is based. Please note that you must not show video clip during your presentation; no matter how short the clip is. Instead, you must speak for about ten minutes. Your final mark for individual presentation is the average marks given by your peer groups in the class; however, your mark may be adjusted if the class gave you unreasonably too low or too high. Please note that you will get a C in your presentation (and the class evaluation of your presentation will not be taken into account) if you (1) do not take an article from either of the journals mentioned on this page, (2) do not discuss/show the theory on which the article is based (3) take article that is based on Hofstede's old dimensions (4) show video clips; (5) base your presentation on a brand name, company, country, specific product, specific industry, case study; (6) do not show source of the article on your slide; and, (7) speak for only for about 5 minutes (i.e., Too short), or speak for about 15 minutes (i.e., too long). Do not take an article for presentation which does not have an explicit theory.

→ Group project-typed (20%): This is research-based group project. I will give you a topic/area relating to international management. If for some reason, you wish to change the topic (though it must be in the same area; you cannot change both title and area), please note that your project cannot be based on a brand, product, country, individual, specific industry, person, or company. See Assignment Guidelines for more details on the website: <http://abem.uwinnipeg.ca> The Guidelines are based on the format of a standard journal article. Please note that your report will get a C invariably if you (1) did not follow the assignment guidelines, (2) cite the same author(s) again and again in the same paragraph or page, (3) took Hofstede's old dimensions as variables and, (4) choose very common or obvious variables such as PEST, environment, culture, age, gender, politics, economy, social, competition, customer, brand awareness, etc (that is, I do not find anything new)... You should choose new and interesting variables that you can interconnect and justify the connections. Your project grade depends on the novelty in your project. So select variables carefully. Obvious variables do not add any value or novelty to your project. I will attach you to a group. Change of group is not permitted. Each group will have six/seven students. If you have been a group leader in my other courses before, please do not play the same role again; be a member of the group. Late submissions will not be marked. Please submit the signed group allocation form (available on the website; Assignment Guidelines, page 5) along with your project, without which your report will not be marked. Please note that I need two hard bound copies and an e-copy of your project in WORD format (drsatsingh@gmail.com) for my records. Please write in the e-mail subject line (IM Group # ?? and abbreviated topic) and in the text name of your group members with student #s. Please do not convert it into .pdf or .jpg format. Also, please do not use OpenOffice software. If you do, you must save it in the format of .doc. If I'm unable to open it, your report will not be marked, leading to a zero. Please send me only one e-mail with all attachments containing the project in word format, data file such as XL/SPSS file (if applicable), or appendices such as pictures, logos, diagrams, large tables, figures, etc.

Also do not prepare a full questionnaire and do not collect data from human beings. However, you can collect data from published sources such as secondary databases, advertisements, logos, etc. Do not attach literature review materials to the e-mail. All e-mail attachment files must be created by your group. Your group project topic will be posted on the website under Study Group List.

→ Group presentation (10%): This is based on the written project. Your group should give a 15-minute (including PowerPoint set up time) oral presentation, followed by a 5-minute session for questions and answers. You must adhere to the time frame. We will use a stop clock to keep track of time. Please send me an e-copy of your presentation in .ppt format (do not make it .pdf or .jpg) at (drsatsingh@gmail.com) before your presentation date for my records. Please write in the e-mail subject line (PPT presentation: IM Group # ?? and abbreviated topic).

Note: Each group will earn a score, out of 100%, based on the group's performance in the group project. To create a group-grade-pool, I will multiply 100% by the number of members in the group. For example, a group of five students would have a group-grade-pool of 500%. It is up to the members of that group to allocate the group grade pool among themselves by unanimous consensus, according to respective contributions to the project. If any member's contribution is expected (or going) to be outside the range (95%-105%), your group should see me as soon as possible. You should not sign the marks allocation form under peer pressure. Regardless of a distribution of marks, an individual group mark in the group work will not exceed 85. Project leader is not supposed to take extra marks for coordinating activities, scheduling meetings or proofreading the report. Please also note that if a group member drops the course (which is always the case in all courses and in most groups), the remaining group members cannot allocate themselves over 100% because now they have to do the "extra work." Group allocation marks are adjusted only when all members are present, agreed and signed. I expect every group member to contribute equally (i.e., 100%)!

→ Midterm Test (20%): This test will be based on short- and long-type questions. It is a closed book test, and may also include information from the individual presentations.

→ Final Exam (30%): This cumulative exam will include short- and long-type questions. It is closed book exam, and may include information from individual presentations.

- Information about term test and final exam: There will be no make-up midterm test. The weighting for the midterm test may be added to your final exam if you produce a doctor's certificate prior to the midterm test stating that your medical condition will prevent you from writing the test. Otherwise, you will get a zero in the term test. Please also note that you cannot refuse to take midterm or final exam after seeing the midterm test or final exam question paper on the ground that you are not feeling well all of a sudden. You will still be marked. If you are not feeling well, you should not appear for the term test or final exam. Please also note that there will be no rescheduling of final exam unless you produce a doctor's certificate prior to the exam stating that your medical condition will prevent you from writing the exam. Otherwise, you will get a zero in the final exam. Given the layout of the classroom, your sitting arrangement may be randomized in term test and final exam. The fact that you need to work, have travel plans, or have too many tests/presentations/exams is not a valid reason for rescheduling the term test/presentations or final exam.

→ Other course evaluation items (10%):

Class Participation Marks (1st and 2nd) (5+5=10%): Students will be required to submit two Class Participation Reports (Report format is available at <http://abem.uwinnipeg.ca> → Assignment Guidelines → pages 8 and 9). Based on these reports and my cross-reference, you may earn marks toward your class participation. Factual contributions, which help organize basic information into a useful discussion, will earn a mark between 0% and 65%. To earn between 66% and 75% mark, you must provide some synthesis beyond the basic facts. To earn +75% mark, your contribution must demonstrate real insight into the key issues of the discussion or presentation. Asking questions during lecture or presentations (individual or group) constitute class participation' however, you'll not get marks if you ask hypothetical (e.g., what if ...), frivolous (e.g., unrelated), or obvious questions such as what is the sample size or its characteristics, weakness of the study, why single country, future research direction.... Instead you should: focus on the objectives of the study; state practical relevance/irrelevance of the presentation; demonstrate understanding of the issues discussed/presented; offer new insight: and build on statements of other students, among others. Your final mark for class participation is the average of all the marks that you have earned during the scheduled classes. If you are absent, you will get zero (unless you produce a medical note), which will lower your average class participation mark significantly. Further, you must not write on the reports if you did not speak in the classes. If you did, it will be reported to Department Review Committee for its action, because it is considered cheating. Please note that there are no marks for listening actively, taking notes, or formulating private thoughts.

Absences (Negative mark): You will one negative mark for being absent from a class. If you missed classes, please ask your friend about what was taught in the class in your absence. Everything taught or discussed (e.g., book, tour, guest lecture, individual presentations, etc.) in the class is testable in term test or final exam.

Professionalism (Negative mark): Late submissions (class participations reports or group project) will not be marked. Negative marks for absences will be posted on the website after the last class but before final exam date. One absence equals one negative mark.

Grade guideline: A+(≥85), A (≥80), A- (≈79), B+ (≥75), B (≥70), C+(≥65), C(≥60), D (≥50), F(<50)
